feeling, feelings  [ˈfiːlɪŋ]
(Nomen)

Definition:
- a sensation, particularly through the skin, for example when someone touches you
- a sensation that you feel inside your body, often referred to the heart rather than to the brain; an emotional state or well-being

Übersetzung: Gefühl

Beispiel: Many people still have feelings for their first love.

feel, felt, felt  [fiːl]
(Unregelmäßiges Verb)

Definition:
- to become aware of through the skin, to use the sense of touch
- to experience an emotion or other mental state

Übersetzung: fühlen

Beispiel: I can feel the sadness in his poems.

emotion, emotions  [əˈməʊʃən]
(Nomen)

Definition:
- a person's internal state of being and involuntary physiological response to an object or a situation, based on or tied to a physical state and sensory data

Übersetzung: Emotion

Beispiel: Her face never shows any emotion.

Synonym(e): feeling, affect

mood, moods  [mʊd]
(Nomen)

Definition:
- a person's mental or emotional state, composure
Übersetzung: Stimmung

Beispiel: I'm in a sad mood since I dumped my lover.

Synonym(e): composure, humour, spirits, temperament

temper, tempers ['tempə(r)]
(Nomen)

Definition: a tendency to anger or lose patience easily, being in a rather bad mood

Übersetzung: Laune

Beispiel: He has quite a temper when dealing with salespeople.

like [laɪk]
(Verb)

Definition: to enjoy, be pleased by something; to prefer and maintain (an action) as a regular habit or activity; to find attractive, to have mild romantic feelings for somebody

Übersetzung: mögen

Beispiel: I like skiing in winter.

Antonym(e): dislike, hate

likes and dislikes
(Chunk)

Übersetzung: Vorlieben und Abneigungen

Beispiel: What are your likes and dislikes?

interested [ˈɪntərstɪd]
(Adjektiv)

Definition: having or showing great attention and concern for someone or something; showing intellectual curiosity
Übersetzung: interessiert

Beispiel: I'm very interested in going to see that play.

sentimental

(Adjektiv)

Definition: derived from emotion rather than reason; characterised by sentiment or excess emotion

Übersetzung: sentimental

Beispiel: She never thought he could be so sentimental.

nervous

(Adjektiv)

[ˈnɜːvəs]

Definition: easily agitated or alarmed by something; relating to or affecting the nerves; a feeling that many people have before an exam

Übersetzung: nervös

Beispiel: Are you nervous to meet your father-in-law?

Antonym(e): calm, relaxed

confused

(Adjektiv)

[kənˈfjuːzd]

Definition: a feeling caused by something that makes no sense, something illogical

Übersetzung: durcheinander

Beispiel: I was confused by all the people suddenly showing up at my place.

Synonym(e): puzzled, perplexed
bored  [ˈbɔː(r)d]
(Adjektiv)
Definition: uninterested, without attention; having nothing to do
Übersetzung: gelangweilt
Beispiel: When there's nothing to do and no one of my friends is around, I really get bored.

shocked  [ʃɒkt]
(Adjektiv)
Definition: surprised, startled, confused, or taken aback by something that was not expected
Übersetzung: schockiert
Beispiel: She was shocked by the high amount she had to pay.

surprised  [səˈprɪzd]
(Adjektiv)
Definition: experiencing the pleasant feelings caused by something good that was unexpected
Übersetzung: überrascht
Beispiel: She was surprised by all the presents she got.
Synonym(e): astonished