berry, berries  [ˈberi]
(Nomen)

Definition: a small, soft fruit which develops from a superior ovary and contains seeds not encased in pits

Übersetzung: Beere

Beispiel: For dessert, we'll have ice cream with lots of berries.

---

gooseberry, gooseberries  [ˈgoʊzberi]
(Nomen)

Definition: a generally hairy berry, but in one variety smooth, usually of green colour, but there are also red variants and occasionally deep purple berries

Übersetzung: Stachelbeere

Beispiel: We had a good haul of gooseberries from our tree this year.

---

strawberry, strawberries  [ˈstrɔːbəri]
(Nomen)

Definition: a juicy, usually red, edible fruit of certain plants growing just above the ground, often made into jam

Übersetzung: Erdbeere

Beispiel: They went to pick strawberries today.

---

raspberry, raspberries  [ˈrɑːzbri]
(Nomen)

a juicy, small, red berry, usually sweet, growing on bushes in the summer
Definition: Himbeere

Beispiel: How about a raspberry lemonade?

blackberry, blackberries ['blækberi]

(Nomen)

Definition: a juicy, small, black berry, usually sweet or a little sour, growing on bushes

Übersetzung: Brombeere

Beispiel: Do you prefer blackberries or strawberries?

blueberry, blueberries ['blu:bəri]

(Nomen)

Definition: an edible round berry belonging to the cowberry family, a botanically false berry, with flared crowns at the end that turn dark blue on ripening

Übersetzung: Blaubeere
Heidelbeere

Beispiel: Do you want a blueberry muffin?

cranberry, cranberries ['kraenberi]

(Nomen)

Definition: a berry that is larger than the leaves of its plant, being initially white, but turning a deep red when fully ripe, having an acidic taste that can overwhelm its sweetness

Übersetzung: Moosbeere

Beispiel: Have you ever tried cranberry juice?
currant, currants
\[\text{[karant]}\]
(Nomen)

Definition: a very small, round and glossy berry, usually red or black, tasting a little sour

Übersetzung: Johannisbeere

Beispiel: We have lots of currants in the garden.

---

grape, grapes
\[\text{[ɡriːp]}\]
(Nomen)

Definition: a small, round, smooth-skinned edible fruit, usually purple, red, or green, that grows in bunches on certain vines

Übersetzung: Traube

Beispiel: Do you want to come by to pick some grapes? We have plenty!

---

raisin, raisins
\[\text{[ˈreɪzn]}\]
(Nomen)

Definition: a dark, dried grape

Übersetzung: Rosine

Beispiel: There are raisins in the cereal.

---

black currant, black currants
(Nomen)

Definition: small, very dark purple, edible berries

Übersetzung: Schwarze Johannisbeere

Beispiel: How about putting some black currants into our cereal?
plum, plums  [plʌm]
(Nomen)
Definition: an edible, fleshy stone fruit, often of a dark red or purple colour

Übersetzung: Pflaume

Beispiel: I need plums for the cake, can you get me some?

prune, prunes  [pruːn]
(Nomen)
Definition: the dried, wrinkled fruit of certain species of plum

Übersetzung: Backpflaume

Beispiel: I've never heard of prunes before and I've never had them.

melon, melons  [ˈmɛlən]
(Nomen)
Definition: various members of the Cucurbitaceae family with fleshy fruit which is a false berry, the plant growing as a vine

Übersetzung: Melone

Beispiel: Would you like a slice of melon?

watermelon, watermelons  [ˈwɔːtərˌmɛlən]
(Nomen)
Definition: a variety of melon, having a green rind and watery flesh that is bright red when ripe and contains black pips

Übersetzung: Wassermelone
Beispiel:

We brought a watermelon to the barbecue.

---

cantaloupe, cantaloupes  [ˈkæntəluːp]

Definition:

a type of melon, with sweet orange flesh and a rough skin resembling netting

Übersetzung:

Buttermelone

Beispiel:

Do you prefer watermelons or cantaloupes?

Synonym(e):

rockmelon, muskmelon

---

coconut, coconuts

Definition:

the fruit of the coconut palm, having a fibrous husk surrounding a large hard-shelled seed which has white flesh and a fluid filled central cavity

Übersetzung:

Kokosnuss

Beispiel:

The cocktail tastes of coconut.